Welcome to the inaugural edition!

A Message From
Gali Halevi, PhD, MLS
Chief Director,
Mount Sinai Health System Libraries

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

It gives me great pleasure to introduce our newsletter. The Mount Sinai Health System libraries are committed to providing the highest quality resources and services to meet the research, education, and clinical needs of our constituents.

Our librarians work diligently to ensure that the content of thousands of eJournals, eBooks, platforms and databases is seamless and easily accessible.

In addition, we provide seminars, workshops and courses to support excellence in research and teaching.

We see ourselves as a part of the Mount Sinai Health System community and work to create and offer community building activities that bring its members together.

Learn about us, what we do and what we offer. Join our events and enjoy the friendly and professional services we offer.

Happy Reading!

2018: Year of Mental Health at Mount Sinai Health System Libraries

Robin O’Hanlon
Assistant Library Director, Outreach & Public Services

Every year, Mount Sinai Health System (MSHS) Libraries structures outreach efforts around a specific theme. 2016 was “Year of the Nurse,” while 2017 was “Year of Public Health.” We are pleased to announce that 2018 has been deemed the “Year of Mental Health” at Mount Sinai Health System Libraries. In this capacity, the MSHS Libraries aims to build relationships and learn about the education, research, and information needs of all Mount Sinai Health System communities that support mental health.

We also seek to identify opportunities for collaboration for original programming including workshops, seminars, and discussion panels on mental health related topics, as well as gain insight into specific collections and resources that can support mental health practitioners and researchers.

As the focus on wellness amongst medical professionals and trainees in recent years has grown, MSHS Libraries seeks to support health care educators committed to addressing mental health issues in our communities, particularly the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai. We look forward to supporting our mental health constituents, as well as all members of the MSHS community in 2018.

Do you have an idea about how MSHS Libraries can support mental health initiatives and research at Mount Sinai? We want to hear from you! To share your thoughts or for more information on Year of Mental Health, contact refdesk@mssm.edu.

According to the Institute of Medicine Standards for Systematic Reviews, systematic review teams benefit greatly by working with a librarian to help design and execute a comprehensive search strategy. Here at ISMMS, our librarians can help with numerous aspects beyond the search, providing expertise on methodology and best practices, helping to develop and refine your topic, suggesting appropriate tools for quality appraisal, and more. Working with a librarian will help ensure you are organized and managing your data appropriately so you are able to easily draft your methods section and PRISMA flow diagram.

Levy Library also licenses Covidence, a tool specifically designed to facilitate several steps in the systematic review process including screening, quality appraisal and data extraction.
